

What are we up to lately?

■ Open Book$

Check out updated school district spending information, as well as new features such as per-student spending data, average class sizes and student demographics, at this online site that makes it easier to understand how K–12 dollars are used

www.openbookproject.org

■ CLASS Project

Chalkboard has launched the Creative Leadership and Student Success (CLASS) pilot project in three Oregon school districts to explore new career paths and compensation options for teachers

■ School business operations reviews

Chalkboard is partnering with the Oregon Association of School Business Officials to review business operations in five volunteer school districts and develop a set of “best practices” to share statewide

■ Professional development review

Chalkboard is reviewing professional development practices in several Oregon school districts to share great methods as well as identify professional development support needs

■ Parent outreach

Chalkboard is helping schools, parents and other community groups connect with diverse families through use of our Running Start toolkit materials, available for downloading online
